Notes:

- i) Contributions made to a medical aid by an employer on behalf of an employee represent a taxable benefit. The medical deductions and credits allowed on assessment are as follows:

Taxpayers below the age of 65

Members of a medical aid will be granted a fixed monthly "tax credit" of:

- R310 (2018: R 303) each for the taxpayer and his/her first dependant; and
- R209 (2018: R 204) for each additional dependant.

To the extent that the sum of qualifying medical expenses and medical aid contributions paid by an employee, and/or his employer on his behalf that are in excess of four times the fixed credit amount above, exceeds 7.5% of his taxable income, an additional credit arises. This additional credit is calculated by multiplying the excess by 25%. The credits will be deducted from the taxpayer's liability for tax but cannot create a tax refund.

Taxpayers 65 and older or taxpayers with a disabled dependent

Members of a medical aid will also be entitled to the fixed monthly credit as above. Contributions to a medical aid in excess of three times the fixed credit amount, together with all qualifying medical expenses, will be converted to an additional credit at the rate of 33.3%.

PAYE

Where an employer effects payment of the medical scheme fees, the fixed (and not the additional) tax credits must be taken into account by the employer in the calculation of PAYE. However, where such payment is not effected by the employer, it must obtain proof of such payments in order to take the credits into account for PAYE purposes.

- ii) From 1 March 2016 any contribution paid by an employer to pension, provident and retirement annuity funds (retirement funds) will be a taxable benefit in the hands of the employees.

An employee's tax deduction in respect of contributions paid to retirement funds will be limited to 27.5% of remuneration or taxable income (excluding lump-sums received), whichever is greater but capped at an annual limit of R 350 000.

Employers will not be limited in respect of contributions made to these funds on the employee's behalf (previously limited to 20% of the employee's remuneration).

- iii) A portion of foreign dividends is exempt in accordance with a formula that is dependent on whether or not the recipient is a natural person, deceased/insolvent estate or special trust.

Schedule of values for travelling allowances

Taxpayers must maintain a record reflecting details of business and total kilometres travelled in order to substantiate any deduction against a travel allowance.

Value of the vehicle (incl. VAT) (R)	Fixed Cost (R)	Fuel Cost (c)	Maintenance Cost (c)
0 – 85 000	28 352	95.7	34.4
85 001 – 170 000	50 631	106.8	43.1
170 001 – 255 000	72 983	116	47.5
255 001 – 340 000	92 683	124.8	51.9
340 001 – 425 000	112 443	133.5	60.9
425 001 – 510 000	133 147	153.2	71.6
510 001 – 595 000	153 850	158.4	88.9
Exceeding 595 000	153 850	158.4	88.9

Notes:

The fixed cost must be reduced on a pro-rata basis if the vehicle is used for business purposes for less than a full year.

80% of the travel allowance is subject to PAYE, unless the employer is satisfied that at least 80% of the use of the motor vehicle will be for business purposes in which case the percentage is reduced to 20%.

Alternatively:

- Where the distance travelled for business purposes does not exceed 12 000 kilometres per annum, no tax is payable on an allowance paid by an employer to an employee, up to the rate of 361 cents (2018: 355 cents) per kilometre regardless of the value of the vehicle.
- This alternative is not available if other compensation in the form of an allowance or reimbursement is received from the employer in respect of the vehicle.

Fringe benefits tax - company cars

Scale of taxable benefits – employer-owned vehicles

Company cars will be subject to tax based on a fringe benefit of 3.5% of the determined value of the vehicle per month (3.25% if the car is subject to a qualifying maintenance plan at the time the vehicle was acquired by the employer). The determined value is normally the cash cost of the vehicle including VAT.

There is a reduction in the fringe benefit on assessment for business use, provided accurate records of the business mileage have been maintained. The reduction is calculated by applying the ratio of business kilometres to total kilometres for the year, to the fringe benefit. The fringe benefit may be reduced depending on the running costs the employee bears.

The employer must deduct PAYE on 80% of the fringe benefit unless he is satisfied that at least 80% of the employee's travel is for business purposes, in which case the PAYE deduction is based on 20% of the benefit.
